FRIDAY, AUGUST 3, 1906.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

4,150

The various spell-binders throughout the state must be contributing to this sustained hot air.

Barre's juvenile population demands a large force of instructors, as will be seen by the list of teachers secured for next year.

Montpelier citizens are showing a commendable cool-headedness in this matter of a city hall, park, stables, etc. There will be a considerable outlay of money and they should demand all the facts beforehand.

SAVINGS BANK DEPOSITS.

Chicago has been boasting of savings bank deposits, which average $77 per person of population. Against this evidence of "the greatest prosperity of the masses ever known," the New York Times places the recently published savings bank figures for that state, which show deposits per head of population averaging $100. That is of course fairly creditable—for New York state; but here in Massachusetts it would figure as evidence of regression and exaltation. Our savings bank deposits amount to just about $15 per capita, and our savings banks are more exclusively used by the poor than are those of New York state.—Springfield, Mass., Republican.

And little Vermont beats Chicago by a wide margin, too. According to the last report of Inspector of Finance L. A. Cobb, the total savings bank deposits were $40,371,907.68, giving us a per capita deposit of $143. Vermont may be called the poor man's state; admittedly it is not a rich man's state. Therefore, the showing of the savings banks here is remarkably good in comparison with the rich commonwealths of Massachusetts and New York. Vermonters are a thrifty people, with a native penchant for saving, and the accumulations in the savings banks are very largely the small deposits of poor people, or those who are only moderately rich.

SPECIAL BARGAINS IN PIGS.

Apparently the nearest approach to "graft" in the state industrial school at Vergennes, as discovered by the state investigating committee, is the sale of a dozen pigs for one dollar each when someone thought they ought to have brought three dollars. The complaint came from an anonymous letter writer, but the commission thought it best to investigate. They found that two years ago the management of the school sold the dozen pigs for a dollar because the animals were not considered "up to the standard." To investigate the matter further, the commission then called the purchaser of the pigs and learned from him that he considered himself beaten in the trade in spite of the low price paid, as two of the animals died before he could get them home, two sold at a raise of twenty-five cents and the others which he raised he never considered a very good investment. If that is all the commission was able to learn to the detriment of the management of the industrial school, we shall have to let it pass as too slight to warrant suspicion, and shall call the sale of the pigs at a dollar as a bargain-counter transaction, in which the seller and the buyer take a chance.

BANKERS OBJECT.

Want United States to Go Out of Money Order Business.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Complaints filed by bankers on the isthmus of Panama against the selling of postal orders by the U. S. government in competition with the sale of exchange by the banks caused the Isthmian Canal Commission to prepare a statement showing the amount of money actually transmitted by money orders from the canal zone in June, the first month in which the orders were offered for sale.
The total amount of money transmitted by such orders from the isthmus was $50,066. Of this amount $47,132 was in orders drawn on the United States and the remainder on postoffices in the canal zone. The fees postmasters collected on the sale of such orders aggregated $197 in the eighteen postoffices in the zone.
Postmasters in the zone paid only five orders issued at postoffices outside of the zone and the total amount of such orders was only $61.

To the National Prison Association in Albany, N. Y.

St. Johnsbury, Aug. 2.—Governor Bell has appointed the following delegates to represent Vermont at the session of the National prison association, whose annual meeting is to be held at Albany, New York, September 15 to 20, 1906: C. H. A. Stafford, Morrisville; Supt. D. L. Morgan, Rutland; L. D. Hazen, St. Johnsbury; Dr. Deane Richmond, Windsor; Mrs. C. H. Lane, Carnwall; Mrs. W. H. Sargent, Brattleboro.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

The Last Resort.

"I tell you," remarked the newly married man, "there's no place like home, after all."
"Yes," agreed the old rounder, "after all."—Baltimore American.

A Sad Story.

The prisoner was not insane. At first, but he could not refrain from reading all the experts said. And that is how he lost his head.—Washington Star.

Had To.

Jones—Why did you give that woman on the car your seat and leave your wife standing?
Browne—Great Scott, man, that was our cook!—Judge.

Wise and Unwise.

The wise man's often lost in thought. When wisdom is in drinking. Most men are merely lost in thought. Through not being built for thinking.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Naturally.

De Style—Has any of your family gone away for the summer?
Gunsbush—Only the cook.—Woman's Home Companion.

Careless.

The heroine was supposed to fall in a fit when the climax of the play was reached.
"Huh!" she exclaimed as she surveyed her new gown in a mirror. "It looks like I'd have to fall in a night tonight."
And the villain still pursued her.—Chicago News.

No Time For Extras.

Tiny Sister (rushing into big sister's room)—Please hurry, Lulu. Mr. White is downstairs.

Lulu (very grandly, while she dais her face with the powder puff)—Very well, dear. I'll be down.
Tiny Sister (nervously)—Oh, please don't wait to shave.—Woman's Home Companion.

An Early Bird.

"Procrastination is a dangerous thing in business, isn't it?" said the young man who is anxious to learn.
"I should say so," answered Dustin Stax. "You don't know how thankful I am that I made my pile before all that furore for investigation started in."—Washington Star.

Jammed Fingers.

Few people have escaped jammed fingers, and as the pain caused when the finger is jammed in a door is excruciating in the extreme for the first few minutes it is well to know of some means of relief. The finger should be plunged into water as hot as can possibly be borne. This application of hot water causes the nail to expand and soften, and the blood pouring out beneath it has more room to flow. Thus the pain is lessened. The finger should then be wrapped in a bread and water poultice. A jammed finger should never be neglected, as it may lead to mortification of the bone if it has been badly crushed, and amputation of the finger must follow. Jammed toes are usually caused through the falling of heavy weights and should be treated in the same way as a jammed finger.

The Conductor's Mistake.

A conductor on the St. Louis and Suburban railroad had such a good run of business Sunday afternoon that he had difficulty in keeping himself supplied with small change. Many passengers who patronized his car handed him dollars and bills of larger denominations in payment of their fares. The conductor, however, managed to get along fairly well until a woman carrying a tiny infant boarded his car. When he approached the woman for her fare she handed him a five dollar bill.

"Is that the smallest you have, madam?" queried the conductor, fearing another stringency in change.
The woman looked at the conductor and then at her baby and made this surprising reply: "Yes; I have been married only twelve months."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

DENTIST TO A HIPPO.

Billy Snyder, Animal Expert, and His Novel Work in New York.

Billy Snyder, guide, philosopher and friend of the big animals in the New York zoological gardens, has lived, eaten and slept with elephants and hippopotamuses so long that he can talk their languages as well as he talks United States. For many years Snyder was elephant man in Central park, and he is known to every small boy who ever visited the city's menagerie armed with pennants and sweets. No body knows more about elephants and hippos than Billy Snyder. Many a sick monster has owed his recovery to Billy's gentle ministrations. Pulling slivers out of elephants' feet, oiling their leathery sides and looking for trouble in the cavernous mouths of hippopotamuses are just what he likes to do. A hippopotamus with a toothache is not the most amiable thing in the world, but soothed by Snyder's sympathetic touch Mr. Hippo will open wide his ponderous jaws and stand like patience on a monument while the veteran keeper locates the offending molar and plugs it with a wad of cotton.

SNYDER RELIEVING A HIPPOPOTAMUS TOOTHACHE.

REMOVAL ORDER GRANTED.

Case Against E. H. Denison & Co. Taken from Chittenden County Court.

Burlington, Aug. 2.—A decision was given yesterday in the case of the United States of America for the benefit of the Elias Lyman coal company vs. United States fidelity and guaranty company, by Judge Miles. A petition was filed in county court a few days ago to have the case removed from Chittenden county court to the United States district court. The arguments in favor of this petition were made Monday. Yesterday's decision grants the order of removal.
This case is brought by the Lyman coal company to recover the value of a coal bill of $940.65 and interest to date, $134.22, furnished by E. H. Denison & Co., the contractors who failed while constructing new buildings at Fort Ethan Allen. A special statute gives a creditor a right to sue a government contractor or the surety, in the name of the United States.

The Checkerboard Town.

Improvements, as St. Paul said of science, is often "falsely so called." If the real estate men would but forget the checkerboard idea in laying out a new town and would take a good landscape gardener into their confidence and the contour of the land into their consideration and plant trees accordingly suburbanites would rise up and call them blessed.—Country Life in America.
